

Delay In Trial Sought Due To Nixon's Health

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's health has been injected into the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial for the first time.

Attorneys for John D. Ehrlichman asked on Wednesday for a 60-to-90-day delay in the trial, set to begin Oct. 1. They said it will take at least that long for Nixon to recover sufficiently from mental depression and phlebitis in his left leg to appear as a defense witness.

Meanwhile, shortly before Ehrlichman's lawyers filed their motion with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, a new snag developed which could force Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski to issue his own subpoena for Nixon's testimony.

Ehrlichman's subpoena for Nixon's testimony was delivered to Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., estate by a U.S. marshal a few weeks after Nixon resigned as President but before there were widespread reports about Nixon's failing health.

The trial of Ehrlichman and five co-defendants is expected to last about three months, but there has been no indication when Nixon might be called to testify.

In their motion, Ehrlichman's lawyers said Nixon's "personal appearance at trial is indispensable to Mr. Ehrlichman's defense."

The former President's attorney, Herbert J. Miller, has already cited Nixon's health in an unrelated civil suit as a reason not to require Nixon to give a sworn deposition in Santa Ana, Calif., on Sept. 24. Miller said that Nixon has in recent weeks "shown serious signs of strain and physical fatigue" in addition to his phlebitis.

In London, Walter H. Annenberg, U.S. ambassador to Great Britain and a friend of Nixon's, said in an AP interview on Wednesday that the former President had called him on Tuesday to say he expected to enter a hospital soon.

Annenberg said Nixon did not say how he felt but "his voice was firm and seemed completely normal to me."

Meanwhile, all defense and prosecution lawyers in the case met Wednesday. Sources said a snag developed which could further complicate the trial and which conceivably could prevent 33 White House tapes from being used as evidence in the trial.

Many of the recordings are of conversations Nixon had with defendants in the case, and they are considered crucial to the prosecutor's case.

There is a legal precedent that tape recordings used in a criminal trial must be authenticated by their owner or originator.

Defense attorneys refused on Wednesday to agree to a prosecution request that it would be unnecessary for Nixon, as original owner of the tapes, to testify to their authenticity in court.

If no other means can be found to authenticate the White House tapes as evidence, it is conceivable the prosecutors may be forced to issue their own subpoena for the former President, sources said.

Ohio Gas Prices Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The price of gasoline dropped at Ohio filling stations over the summer after reaching peaks last February during the fuel shortage crisis, Federal Energy Administration spokesmen confirmed Tuesday.

In some areas, declines usually involving off-brands were dramatic. FEA spokesmen said lows of 48.9 cents per gallon of regular grade have been reported in Dayton and a number of stations were selling regular for 49.9 cents in the Columbus area. That compared with prices as high as 62 cents per gallon in some areas of the state last February.

Energy officials said regular gasoline was averaging about 54 cents per gallon in industrial northern areas of the state and in southwestern Ohio. Regular gasoline was averaging about 52 cents per gallon in Columbus and southeastern Ohio, the FEA said.

Statewide monitoring by FEA inspectors found prices in most areas currently ranging between 50 and 56 cents per gallon for regular.

A high of 56.9 per gallon of regular was reported in the Cincinnati-Dayton area by the FEA and a spot check found a station in suburban Columbus charging the same.

Interviews with station owners, oil company spokesmen and energy officials turned in varying opinions on the reason for the declines.

"The major companies' costs have been determined to be lower," an energy official in Cincinnati said. Federal officials agreed that conservation measures by motorists were also a factor, though probably minor.

Several major oil companies reported moderate drop-offs in their prices to dealers.

"The supply is more in balance with the demand," one company spokesman said. "There is a softening of prices because at today's levels there is gas available."

However, most dealers surveyed said lower prices at the pumps were more often the reflection of cutbacks on profit margins by station owners unable to sell their full monthly gasoline allotments.

"Some of the guys are worried. They're not selling enough," one dealer said.

The Central Ohio Dealers Association, representing 350 station owners, said dealers were lowering prices because of "pressure" from oil companies to pump the full monthly allotment.

Dealers surveyed could not confirm this, although some suspected there was pressure on stations unable to move their full allotment. Most dealers agreed that motorists were not purchasing as much gasoline as in the past.

The oil companies denied any pressure on dealers and most spokesmen said they were unaware of any major problems with allotments. Major companies in Ohio have been supplying their stations with close to 100 per cent of their allotments for the past several months.

"I don't know what they mean by pressure," an oil company spokesman said. "We expect them to comply with the stipulations of the contract." Some contracts require dealers to stay open a minimum number of hours a week.

"I think we've all been had," a dealer in Columbus griped, blaming price fluctuations on "the oil companies' reacting (to shortages) and the government's overreacting."

Overcharges Bring Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Power Commission Chairman John N. Nassikas faces House hearings on allegations the FPC allowed overcharging for natural gas.

Nassikas said in an interview Tuesday that the FPC had legal authority for its gas-pricing actions, contrary to the view of the General Accounting Office, but he admitted that other criticisms in a GAO report last Friday were accurate.

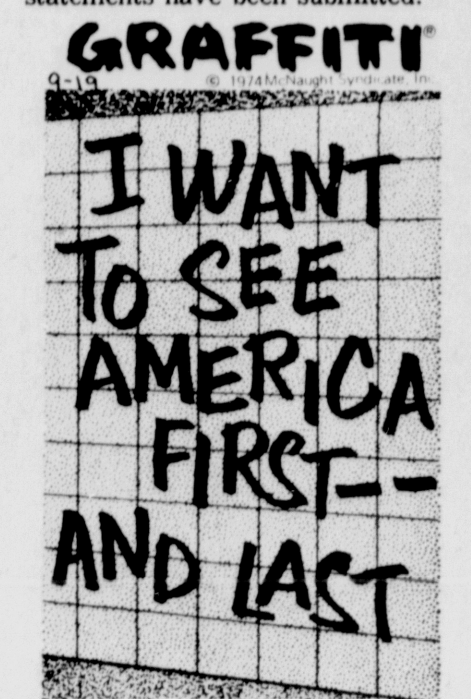

He also said the FPC was investigating 19 of its officials for possible conflicts of interest and would refer any apparently serious cases to the Justice Department.

The House permanent subcommittee on investigations scheduled hearings for next Wednesday, after the report was released by GAO, investigative agency of the Congress.

The GAO report said most FPC officials, required to file annual personal financial statements, failed for at least three years to file them. Even the personnel programs director, executive director, and general counsel who administered and enforced the program had failed to file statements.

The GAO also said 19 FPC officials were found to own securities in companies affected by FPC regulation.

Nassikas admitted the financial reporting system had broken down, but said it has been corrected and the statements have been submitted.

PUMPKIN-HUED—Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. workers are in the second week of converting downtown street lights from mercury-vapor to sodium-vapor bulbs. The sodium "Lucolux" bulbs, manufactured by the Cuyahoga and Ravena Lamp Plants of the General Electric Co., provide the same 400 watts as the mercury, but give off 40,000 lumens, nearly double the existing lights. The sodium lights also have an orange hue. C&SOE is on contract with the city to provide the 51 new street lights and service. Standards have to be raised due to the increase in lumens and the poles will be painted. Installing the lights Thursday morning are Jack Bookman, D.C. Cunningham, and Bill Mellinger.

Independents Cut Gasoline Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Independent gasoline stations are dropping pump prices as much as 13 cents a gallon, cutting into sales of many higher-priced, major brand dealers, an Associated Press survey shows.

"There's definitely some easing of price all around, especially in the wholesale price available to independents," says Dan Lundberg of the Lundberg Survey of national retail gasoline prices.

"Two months ago, the market for independent gasoline had almost dried up, but now it's open again," says a spokesman for the St. Louis-based Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers.

"Independent refiners who sell to the independent retailers are getting more imported crude and more of the cheaper domestic crude which the majors have to sell off out of their inventories through the (federal) allocation system."

"As a result, the independents' price has dropped 4 to 5 cents a gallon generally, and they're passing it along to the customer. Some independents are going one step further and cutting their profit margins down to build up the sales volume they lost to the majors during the gasoline shortage."

Industry gasoline supply figures indicate that there is more of the fuel in stock this year than the same time last year, but demand is holding about even with last year's level. This means that the majors are having trouble selling all their gasoline through their own outlets.

Many dealers say the increased supply of gasoline has come from conservation by motorists. But some dealers say the major oil companies are purposely holding prices at high levels to boost their profits. This has acted as a deterrent to retail sales, which helps supplies but hurts business, they say.

"I guess they're more concerned with their stockholders than they are about their dealers and their customers," says a Phillips Petroleum dealer in Topeka, Kan.

In Louisiana, where independents have cut prices about five cents a gallon this summer, Exxon dealer Munroe Reed of New Orleans says, "Their lower prices are hurting me and brand dealers like me."

Reed says he and other Exxon dealers have complained for a month to Exxon to lower prices in their area but have seen no results.

Gasoline in Charlotte, N.C., is down 13 cents a gallon from its peak and is selling at 45.7 cents a gallon at independent stations. Major brands are still selling at 58.7 cents a gallon.

Exxon dealer James Robinson of Charlotte complains that his sales are down 25 per cent as customers desert him for lower priced gas. He says Exxon has suggested he stay open longer to try to sell more gas, but the company won't cut prices.

Ohio dealers report price skirmishes between offbrand dealers in Detroit and Cincinnati, but major brands aren't lowering their prices.

In New Hampshire, station owners in Manchester say competition has reduced prices to 50.9 cents a gallon from 56 cents.

And in Chicago, where prices vary as much as eight cents a gallon, some stations are advertising car wash deals or soap or candy with gas.

Draft Evader Sees No Returnees

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "No one's coming back," vows draft evader David Tabakow, former Cincinnati resident.

Speaking from his home in Montreal Tuesday, Tabakow labeled amnesty "a myth" and said he doubted if there would be many takers on President Ford's offer.

"Amnesty is totally unacceptable," said the former Ohio State University student who moved to Canada in 1967.

"In the media, we've been presented as 20 years old. We're not. My friends are writers and businessmen," said the 30-year-old Tabakow. "They're not going to spend two years scrubbing."

Government officials in Cincinnati report they have received calls questioning the conditions of returning.

"We've had several of those today," said Anthony Nyktas, an assistant U.S. attorney.

But none of the 22 men listed as fugitives from Selective Service laws in Cincinnati has accepted the President's offer for earned amnesty.

Tabakow objects to the oath of allegiance which will be required of returning resisters.

He said it is "essentially an admission of moral guilt if not legal guilt."

"I am a Canadian citizen. I can't even do that—pledge U.S. allegiance—without losing Canadian citizenship," he said.

"No amnesty that is in any sense punitive has any chance of success," Tabakow said.

Hospital Approved

COVINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Key approval for Boone County's long-sought new hospital came Wednesday when the state Certificate of Need Board approved the planned move.

Miss Barefoot said the request would be higher than $1.3 billion "because of some requests that came in in the last two days. But that is close."

Gov. John J. Gilligan, she said, was informed of the board's plan to unveil the budget at the public meeting and said to go ahead.

"We didn't try to go behind his back," she said. "We think we have come up with a whole new approach to higher education and we're going to ask for the money to do it. We think it is a 'bare bones' request for what we want to do."

Former Crime Fight Chief Now $135-A-Day Consultant

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal crime-fighting agency has quietly hired its former boss as a $135-a-day consultant for up to three months despite his resignation in a political dispute last June.

Donald E. Santarelli remains on the payroll of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration as a "special government employee," LEAA and Justice Department officials acknowledged in response to questions Wednesday.

On June 1, Santarelli resigned as head of the agency after suggesting publicly that Richard M. Nixon should quit the presidency because of the Watergate scandal.

Nixon accepted the resignation but asked Santarelli to remain until a successor was chosen. A former deputy administrator, Richard W. Velde, was sworn into the $40,000-a-year top job on Sept. 5.

Two weeks later, Santarelli still is working in the office he occupied as administrator.

LEAA officials reluctantly disclosed that Santarelli has been authorized to work from Aug. 29 to Nov. 28 although he may leave before then.

The agreement with Santarelli was worked out while LEAA's internal investigators launched a probe of the agency's policies on the employment of consultants. Those policies produced complaints from career workers and prompted additional investigations by the Justice Department and General Accounting Office.

Santarelli's $135 daily fee was said to be the standard payment for LEAA consultants. A full work week would give Santarelli $675, about $90 a week less than the administrator earns.

In an interview, Santarelli said he is working "as a general consultant to the administration for a few days."

He then plans to enter private law practice in Washington, but "I have not made final arrangements with a law firm," he said.

Seek To Expand Access To Nixon Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is ready to join the special Watergate prosecutor and a House subcommittee in efforts to expand access to former President Richard M. Nixon's tapes and documents.

The Senate Government Operations Committee was scheduled to vote today on a resolution calling on President Ford to make public all parts of the tapes dealing with Watergate.

And the committee is also considering action on a bill sponsored by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., which would make all the papers of future presidents the property of the government.

In the House, Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., said on Tuesday his House appropriations subcommittee will urge that none of the tapes and papers be moved from Washington "until an arrangement is worked out to assure they will be made available to the public."

Jaworski, meanwhile, sent the White House a list of tapes and documents he wants for various Watergate prosecutions. And a White House source said that at the same time Jaworski aides are trying to reach a compromise on access to the materials with Nixon's lawyer, Herbert J. Miller.

Jaworski had not been consulted on the agreement, announced Sept. 8, for safekeeping of Nixon's tapes and papers. The agreement was worked out by Benton L. Becker, a Washington lawyer representing Ford, and Miller.

Under that agreement the materials would be safeguarded in a vault near Nixon's San Clemente home which could be opened only by use of two keys. Nixon would have one key, and Arthur Sampson, head of the General Services Administration, would have the other.

The agreement calls on Nixon to make materials available if subpoenaed, but he could challenge any subpoena in court.

The materials have not left the White House yet, but Ford has stopped short of saying they will remain there until Jaworski's staff obtains everything it needs.

The Senate resolution, which would not have the force of law, was suggested by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. It states that, because it is now uncertain whether the public will be allowed access to the tapes, Ford should make them available.

"It calls upon President Ford to assure the American people that in the national interest they will be provided all the facts of Watergate ...," Mansfield said.

The House subcommittee has deleted funds for Nixon's transition which had been intended for construction of the vault for the papers and tapes.

Under the agreement signed by Nixon, he donates the tapes to the United States effective Sept. 1, 1979 with the provision that he can order destruction of any he feels would injure, embarrass or harass anyone.

The tapes are to be destroyed five years later or on Nixon's death, whichever is first.

He agrees to hold his papers jointly with the government for three years, after which he is free to do with them as he wishes.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rode continuing hopes for a relaxation of interest-rate pressures to a strong gain today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 16.82 at 668.73, and gainers overran losers by 5-to-1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

At a news conference in New York, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said he expected short-term money rates, which have pulled back recently, to decline further, although he said he could not say how much.

Westinghouse Electric was the Big Board volume leader, up 1/2 at 10 1/2. On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index jumped 1.26 to 65.32.

Money-sensitive stocks continued the gradual rally set off recently by hopes for a lessening of interest-rate pressures. Federal National Mortgage was up 1/4 at 14 1/4, for example, and MGIC Investment added 1/2 to 11 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .92 at 36.31.

Dynell Electronics was the Amex volume leader, up 1/2 at 2 1/4.

Education Said Inflation Hostage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the nation's largest teacher organization warned today that crime, welfare and unemployment will shoot up if "education is kept hostage" in the fight against inflation.

James A. Harris, head of the National Education Association representing 1.5 million classroom teachers, was among 180 delegates to a two-day, economic mini-summit conference at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

A prelude to the national summit conference Sept. 27-28, the gathering was billed by HEW as an attempt to elicit "suggestions on the way in which inflation should be attacked and the appropriate governmental and private sector economic policies to be followed."

But Harris, reflecting concerns of many organizations with a stake in the $111-billion HEW budget, expressed suspicion that the Ford administration had already decided on an anti-inflationary strategy.

"Then when we get hit where it hurts, we're all supposed to keep our mouths shut because, after all, we 'helped shape' the policy," Harris said in a prepared statement.

He said that education spending cuts would reduce national income and government revenues and "guarantee increased crime, with all its varied attendant expenses; increased welfare rolls and increased unemployment."

In advance of the conference, HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said no area of the federal budget, including his own, should be exempt from spending reductions.

While declaring that no HEW program is "automatically helpful or necessary or relieves poverty," he noted that 94 per cent of the department's budget represents spending that could not be reduced without congressional approval.

Particularly troublesome to the administration is the health industry, where the rate of inflation has far outstripped that in the general economy since federal controls were lifted last spring.

The nation's health bill now exceeds $100 billion a year, costing each man, woman and child $496 and making the industry the nation's third largest. HEW estimates that the expenditures will top $120 billion next year.

Equally disturbing is the plight of education, also a big business with expenditures of $96.3 billion and a payroll of more than six million people.

Constitution Week Booklet Distributed To County Schools

Glenn, Perk To Speak At AP Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Republican and Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate in Ohio will address the Associated Press Society of Ohio in Cincinnati Oct. 26.

John Glenn, a Democrat, and Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, a Republican, will speak at the banquet session of the society's fall meeting.

A feature of the weekend session will be a demonstration of Laserphoto, photographic receivers utilizing a laser beam and developed by The Associated Press. The equipment is to be installed as available at AP members receiving Wirephoto.

The meeting opens Oct. 25 with an educators' seminar. This will bring together college journalism professors with publishers and editors of Ohio AP member newspapers.

The seminar will focus on preparing new journalism graduates to meet the demands of modern newsrooms.

The gathering of newspaper publishers, editors and managing editors will conduct a business meeting Saturday afternoon.

A reception will precede the banquet where Perk and Glenn are to speak. The society will conclude its meeting at a Sunday brunch.

Arrest Woman For Abuse Of Young Girl

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — A Mason County woman convicted of child abuse in the mistreatment of a foster daughter was released from the county jail Wednesday after posting $1,000 bond.

Lillian Mitchell Legg is to appear before Circuit Judge James Lee Thompson Friday, when he is expected to rule on her motion for a mistrial.

The 43-year-old Ms. Legg was found guilty by a Mason Circuit Court jury of the mistreatment of a 13-year-old girl. The girl and her younger brother had lived with Ms. Legg and her former husband Joseph for nearly seven years.

During that time, the children testified, the couple had tied them to their beds every evening and fed them a diet consisting primarily of peanut butter and oatmeal.

The 54-year-old Mitchell pleaded guilty to the charge last week and will be sentenced Friday by Judge Thompson.

The two were originally tried together last June, but Judge Thompson declared a mistrial at that time. Under state law, child abuse is a misdemeanor punishable by not more than a year in the county jail.

"I regret that it is a misdemeanor instead of a felony," said Prosecutor Don Kingery in his summation to the jury Monday afternoon. "A misdemeanor carries only a jail sentence while the felony constitutes sentencing to a penitentiary."

Ms. Legg must also face trial Jan. 20 on child abuse charges concerning the little boy.

The children, who testified against their former foster parents, now live with a Point Pleasant family.

Policeman Wounded 3rd Time

DETROIT (AP) — Gregory Ciaglo left a monastery six years ago to join the Detroit Police Department. He wanted to help people. Now he's in serious condition after being shot for the third time.

"He had a deep faith that there was a job to be done there," said his sister, Janice Gilbeau. "He did not always want to be a policeman."

"After he came out of the Marine Corps, he spent a year in a monastery and then decided to join the department to help people."

Police say Ciaglo, 28, was shot in the stomach with his own handgun on Tuesday by a driver he was arresting for not having a license or registration.

Ciaglo's years with the department have been stormy. He had a serious dispute with his fellow officers and there were the three shootings.

He quit the department in 1970 because of pressure by fellow officers after he refused to sign a report that didn't include details of a beating his partners allegedly administered to a man.

Ciaglo's supervisor, then Sgt. Frank A. Blount, backed him in the dispute, and he rejoined the force a year later.

"You can tell he is not a violent man, but I would love to have 1,000 like him on the force," said Blount, who is now a deputy chief of police.

In 1972, Ciaglo was hit in the face by shotgun pellets after he responded to a radio order to investigate a report of a man with a gun at a Detroit apartment.

Ciaglo recovered. Eleven months later, he was shot in the jaw by a suspect he summoned to his patrol car for questioning.

Ask State Agency For Labor Tiffs

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Charles Pinzone, executive secretary of the Cleveland Building and Construction Trades Council, has asked Gov. John J. Gilligan to create a state agency to mediate labor disputes.

In a letter to Gilligan made public Wednesday, Pinzone suggested the agency be empowered to intervene to head off work stoppages.

I sincerely believe that work interruptions are being tolerated today without cause because we do not have a state agency for mediating such dispute," Pinzone said.

Dear Abby:

Okie Wants Hometown Wedding

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter Susie is marrying a man from Oklahoma. (We live in Arkansas)

We want Susie to be married in our church with her friends and family present. This Okie she's marrying wants to be married in his church in Oklahoma, where there will be only strangers to Susie.

The reason he wants the wedding in Oklahoma is because his mother is old, sick and can't travel. She's a widow, and he's her only child. I think it's nice of this Okie to be so considerate of his mother, but is it fair to us? Susie is ready to give in, and I don't think she should.

I planned to have the whole wedding taped and taking lots of pictures to send to this Okie's mother which would be almost like being at the wedding. I want your opinion.

SUSIE'S MOM

DEAR MOM: Although weddings traditionally take place in the bride's church, the groom's reasons for wanting to have it in Oklahoma seem reasonable to me. Why not let the bride and groom work it out?

And Mom, I sense an element of hostility here that goes deeper than the question of where to have the wedding. For openers, you could quit referring to your prospective son-in-law as "This Okie." OK?

DEAR ABBY: I am a man in my last year of college. My parents are divorced and I live with my dad. I am on good terms with both of them, but there is something about my father that bugs me.

Dad has a steady girl friend who spends the night at his place quite often. That's his business, although I feel a little strange witnessing this kind of setup. I sure wasn't raised that way. Both Mom and Dad were a little on the prudish side, and taught me that sex is a private matter.

What I really object to is the way Dad and his girl friend carry on in front of me. Lots of fondling and kissing and touching in a most intimate way. This goes on while we are having a three-way conversation, so it's not as if I intruded on their privacy.

I've told Dad that I find this sort of thing embarrassing and have asked him not to do it. Nothing changed. How can I let him know I mean what I say? He respects your opinion.

GROSSED OUT

DEAR GROSSED: I doubt that Dad will change his behavior to please you, so since it's his house, and you're old enough to do so, find separate digs and quietly move out. Tell him it's time you lived alone. (True.) Avoid futile confrontation and remain friends.

DEAR ABBY: I have a serious problem I cannot confide in anyone else. I am a woman, aged 23. I have never had a complete physical examination in my life. To be honest with you, I just can't go through with anything like that. The thought of a gynecological examination throws me into a panic.

For the last couple of months I haven't been feeling well. I know I should see a doctor for a complete examination, but I've made three appointments and cancelled them all at the last minute due to this fear of embarrassment.

I hope this doesn't give you the impression that I am childish or stupid because I'm not. I am a college graduate and consider myself to be fairly intelligent. Please advise me.

HUNG UP

DEAR HUNG UP: Consider seeing a woman physician, although a competent male physician would surely put you at ease immediately. Make an appointment today and no more stalling.

Tax Vote Law Tried In Dayton

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dayton is primed to use a new state law that should make it easier for Ohio cities to win voter approval of higher income tax levies.

Other cities may follow suit. The new law, effective last Friday, reduced the necessary voter approval from 55 per cent to a simple majority.

In advance of the law, Dayton set a vote on income tax for Sept. 27.

Rep. C. J. McLin Jr., D-36 Dayton, sponsored the new law, introducing his legislation after Dayton voters rejected proposals to hike the city income tax beyond 1 per cent five times over a period of five years.

"I think there will be others anxious to try the new law," said John Coleman, executive director of the Ohio Municipal League.

He said several other Ohio cities were in much the same situation as Dayton.

The old law penalized efforts to win voter approval of higher city income taxes at special elections by requiring only a simple majority at regular elections, but 55 per cent at specials.

Coleman said cities think they can do a better job of voter education if a tax proposal is isolated into a single issue election.

"In the case of Dayton and others," said Coleman, "I think the cities have reached the point where the only thing they have left to cut is vital services."

McLin's measure kept unchanged a prohibition against any city levying an income tax in excess of 1 per cent without voter approval. The new statute also stipulates that any municipal income tax must be levied at a uniform rate.

Toledo was the first city in Ohio to receive voter authorization to increase its tax from 1 to 1 1/2 per cent.

Dayton and Cleveland are the only cities among the state's eight largest which still have a 1 per cent income tax.

Cincinnati collects the largest tax, 2 per cent.

Others levying 1 1/2 per cent are Akron, Canton, Youngstown and Columbus. A number of smaller cities also have the 1 1/2 per cent tax, Coleman said.

Another new law that became effective last Friday gives a new tax tool to operators of local mental health and mental retardation programs.

It increases from five to 10 years the maximum length of tax levies for the purpose of running mental health-related programs. The bill affects only those levies which go beyond the 10-mill levy limitation.

Mental health-related programs join a list of others for which levies may exceed 10 mills for longer than five

A Page Of Opinion

Assistance Limited

As dissimilar as they are, there is an underlying common thread in America's welfare system, its assistance to other countries and food relief programs. The common denominator is the degree of dependence the recipient tends to develop.

It may vary considerably with the size and frequency of the gift, but a regular program of support soon becomes more than a temporary shelter from disaster. That is why U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz has received criticism from countries which are on the receiving end of the U.S.

food program for his remark, "We cannot afford to feed the world, nor should we."

The secretary was right nonetheless. There is a limit to America's abundant capacity, and the signals flowing through the economy may indicate we have met it. The depletion of surplus food stocks, the all-out effort to increase food production to record capacities, rising food prices and concern that a drought could throw serious dislocations into the domestic market—all are signs there is not much reserve assistance remaining.

At the same time, countries like India which have been receiving American food gifts for many years do not seem particularly exercised about either population control or copying Western farming techniques to become more self-sufficient. What India has done in recent years is to go to war with Pakistan and develop a nuclear potential.

It is that kind of dependence upon the United States which has prevented India and others from developing a meaningful self-help program of their own.

Readers Write

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — My friend Doris Lilly, who wrote "How to Marry a Millionaire," "How to Make Love in Five Languages," and other well-documented treatises on the human condition, advises as follows:

"Girls, if that man in your life is being sluggish about popping the question, try reading 'Winners & Losers' by Dr. Howard M. Newburger. (David McKay).

"A satisfied reader harnessed a husband in just nine weeks by following the simple rules set down by the noted psychologist:

"1 — She stopped sabotaging his anti-marriage discussions.

"2 — Whenever he mentioned somebody who was happily married, she responded happily, instead of frowning, like rubbing his back or giving him a spontaneous embrace.

"3 — She encouraged his tennis (it needed encouragement) by telling him he was a veritable Jimmy Connors. All he needed was to brush up on his net game."

Doris didn't tell me how the poor bum managed to hold out for nine weeks.

Remember Teddy Hayes, the trainer of Jack Dempsey in the Mauler's prime? Teddy is alive, frisky, happily married to beautiful Virginia Howard, formerly of the stage, and is gainfully and busily employed. There are men who look forward to surrender to the wiles of a pension, Social Security, Medicare, a rocking chair and a double Geritol on the rocks. Not Teddy.

"This is my 86th birthday," Teddy wrote the other day from his office in the Petroleum Division of the American Coldset Corporation, Scottsdale, Ariz. "I drove in today from El Paso, Texas, where I finished a two-day meet with the El Paso Natural Gas people. It's 425 miles. Stopped off in Phoenix for a meeting with the Arizona Petroleum and Developing Association, then 20 miles on to Scottsdale. Got here at 11:30 p.m."

"Ginny had a birthday cake ready with two candles — her birthday was the day before mine. She told me that during the day Joe Benjamin had called from San Francisco. It was his birthday, too. And Jackie Fields called from Las Vegas. So nice of those guys. "Ginny asked me what I wished for my birthday. I told her that all I wished was to keep breathing."

They don't make 'em like Teddy, Joe and Jackie any more.

Don Fessenden, one of the prides of Boston journalism, noticed a recent piece of mine from Bermuda to the effect that Kenneth Roberts, late great author who wrote "Northwest Passage" and many others, had been foolish enough during his occasional trips to Bermuda from Kennebunkport, Me., to search for fresh water on that coral island with a divining rod. Fresh water in Bermuda, I brusquely wrote, is obtainable only from rain that is caught on the roofs and side-hill catch-alls of that enchanted place.

"If Ken Roberts could have seen your column in the Boston Herald American he would have immediately started typing — or dictating to his niece, Marjorie — a four-page, single space letter blasting you out, with flourishes, for having accepted erroneous information. Since he can't set the record straight, I will.

"The truth is that Henry Gross, a Maine game warden and the central figure of two books Roberts wrote about dowsing, did indeed locate four places in Bermuda where there was fresh water, and he did it by holding a forked stick over a map spread on the bar at Roberts' home in Kennebunkport! I didn't see him do it, but I saw the marked map.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Financial advisers often discourage insurance policy owners from borrowing the cash value of their insurance, claiming that loan off—in a parody of Shakespeare—lose both itself and policy.

Since there is no rule that says the money must be paid back in a specified time, they argue, the borrower sometimes permits loan and interest to erode and even destroy the policy's value.

Nevertheless, policyholders today owe more than $21 billion to insurers for loans taken out with their policies as collateral. The figure compares with $7.14 billion in pre-inflationary 1964.

The lesson appears to be this: more and more families are using credit to finance a life style made more expensive by inflation. To some extent, this marks a break with the past.

Bankers, insurers and other lenders have long noted the tendency of families to reduce their credit when recession threatens. They turn conservative, learning to cut waste and frills. It is a self-protective act.

The present combination of recession and inflation seems to thwart that tendency, forcing families to borrow in spite of their feelings that a conservative posture is safest. It may be that they have no choice.

The borrowing syndrome is showing up in other areas also. Total consumer credit—not including borrowings on insurance—exceeds $180 billion now, and appears to be climbing after a brief early summer pause.

Installment credit, the kind that is repaid in regular weekly or monthly payments, makes up the bulk of consumer credit, totaling close to $152 billion on Aug. 1. It rose by $1.5 billion in July alone.

A big reason for the continued increase, it appears, is the rising price of automobiles. When car prices rise, the amount owed rises also. Strapped for funds, car buyers choose more credit rather than bigger down payments.

While these trends develop, lenders are studying an even more worrisome set of figures that indicates the burden is becoming excessive for some borrowers. Repayments, they feel, are slower than they should be.

Inflation Cuts Down On Patrols

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Warren County Sheriff Roy Wallace says his department has been hit in the gas tank by the current inflationary crunch.

New department cruisers average about 10 to 11 miles per gallon, compared to the old average of 12 in 14 miles per gallon.

The fund which covers cruisers equipment, gasoline and uniforms is down to $800 and Wallace said he has asked county commissioners for an additional $24,300 in extra funds to help him make it through the year.

"Our only alternative would be to park our cruisers and we're already getting protests that we don't patrol enough," said Wallace, adding that most of the extra money would defray cruiser costs.

"This is the first time in my six years as sheriff that I've ever had to ask for more money," he said. "Our budget was figured on much lower costs all around—but inflation has made everything more expensive."

Food costs for prisoners, maintenance and other costs have also risen, according to Wallace.

"You wouldn't believe it, but there is still a law on the books which says you can't spend more than $1.50 per day per prisoner for food," Wallace said. "It's not easy, but we're meeting that cost."

City officials, members of the Circleville Chapter of the NAA, and members of the Rotary, were urged by the director of the Ohio Department of Aeronautics to provide a municipal airport for the city.

A bullet that whistled through the second story window of a home on Pickaway Street barely missed hitting the owner of the house who was shaving in front of the bathroom mirror. He heard the glass break as the bullet passed through the window in the next room and felt the slug drop at his feet.

A special car over the Scioto Valley Traction Line made a trip to Chillicothe checking the electric power.

Public improvements occupied the attention of city council when the preparation of two ordinances was authorized and motions were adopted calling for plans on two sewer projects. Work included a sidewalk on S. Pickaway St., a grade on N. Pickaway St., and the sewer projects.

"... So I said to the boss, 'What do you expect from me — I'm not a machine!'... So he replaced me with a machine."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have a tendency towards bleeding gums. My dentist says that smoking cigarettes contributes to this. I can't believe it.

Mr. G. E., Fla.

Dear Mr. E.:

"You'd better believe it" is a modern idiom that applies very directly to your problem.

There are a number of factors that cause gum disease. Infections, malnutrition, poor dental hygiene and dental decay are undoubtedly important. Probably more important than tobacco.

Yet a recent study reported at the International Association for Dental Research definitely showed a greater frequency of gum disease in smokers than in nonsmokers.

In a study of almost 700 patients, "the impact of gum disease on smokers was underscored by the greater rate of bone loss and tooth mobility"

Is there any validity to the idea that someone can die suddenly from a broken heart?

Miss A. D., La.

Dear Miss D.:

Poets have written about this for centuries.

From a scientific point of view there has been little evidence until very recently. Dr. William A. Greene, of the University of Rochester Medical Center, did an intensive study on the subject. He found that "severe depression was involved in some of the sudden deaths he investigated."

If your question has a personal connotation I suggest you see your doctor and discuss with him or a psychologist your emotional problems.

What is a "sippy" diet for ulcers?
Mr. L. V., N.H.

Dear Mr. V.:

The diet is based on the principle of small feedings of bland, unseasoned food. This includes a mixture of milk and cream at frequent intervals to counteract the excess hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

As the symptoms of ulcer begin to subside, tender ground meats, pureed vegetables and stewed fruits are slowly added to the diet.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

This is a letter to all horse and pony owners in Pickaway and neighboring counties.

The Circleville Herald contained an article Saturday, September 14, 1974 stating that there would be no horses or ponies permitted in any Pumpkin Show parade, including the pet parade. I for one don't like to see this happen because I feel we horse and pony owners have as much right to parade our pets as anyone else. I contacted a member of the Pumpkin Show committee, and he gave me these reasons why we are not permitted to parade this year.

Number one was a lack of participation by horsemen in previous parades.

Number two was because of the mess left in the streets.

Number three was nervous horses. I believe that if we as horse and pony owners work together with the parade committee, we can get our horses and ponies back into the pet parade. We must express to the committee that there are enough of us interested to reconsider their decision.

I feel that if there is only one participant or a hundred, for any class in a parade, he or she has as much right as anyone else to be proud of their pet and to put it on public display.

Problem number two is the mess left on the streets. I personally will donate my time and equipment to clean up the messes our animals leave, if it will mean that some small child can express its love for his pet in public.

Problem number three is nervous horses. This is a problem that no one can solve completely, but the chances of someone getting hurt by a horse, pony, dog or any other animal is always a possibility.

I don't know a horseman alive that would intentionally take an uncontrollable animal into a crowd if he thought someone would be hurt. I am aware that there are certain people in every crowd who are either ignorant, don't care, or don't know any better when they throw rocks, use bean shooters or flip paper clips at the animals as well as people in a parade. There are people who turn small children loose on the streets during a parade. They run out into the streets to pet the animals, if one of these children would get hurt who would be to blame? The animal owners? The child? Or the child's parents?

My father and I have used horses and ponies for several years in various types of parades. We don't do it for the money, if you win first place it usually doesn't amount to enough to pay for the gasoline used to haul the animals.

We enter our horses and ponies in parades because we are proud of them and for the personal satisfaction we get when we see the eyes of little children and elderly people in the crowds light up because they either see something they have never seen before, or what they see brings back memories of a part of their lives they will never see again.

I am asking everyone who reads this letter to contact a member of the Pumpkin Show Committee or, myself if you are interested in continuing the use of horses and ponies in the Pumpkin Show Pet Parade.

Thank you,
GERALD STARKEY

Payments Balance In Red Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that the country's balance of payments was in deficit by $2.7 billion in the second quarter of the year, due largely to a big outflow of dollars to pay for foreign oil and an increase in U.S. investments abroad.

The second quarter deficit compared with a surplus in the first three months of the year of $1.8 billion and was the biggest deficit since $2.9 billion in the third quarter of 1972.

The adverse shift in the balance of payments, which appeared to be much larger than expected, marks a resumption of the big flow of dollars out of the United States that was partially responsible for two devaluations of the dollar in 1971 and 1973.

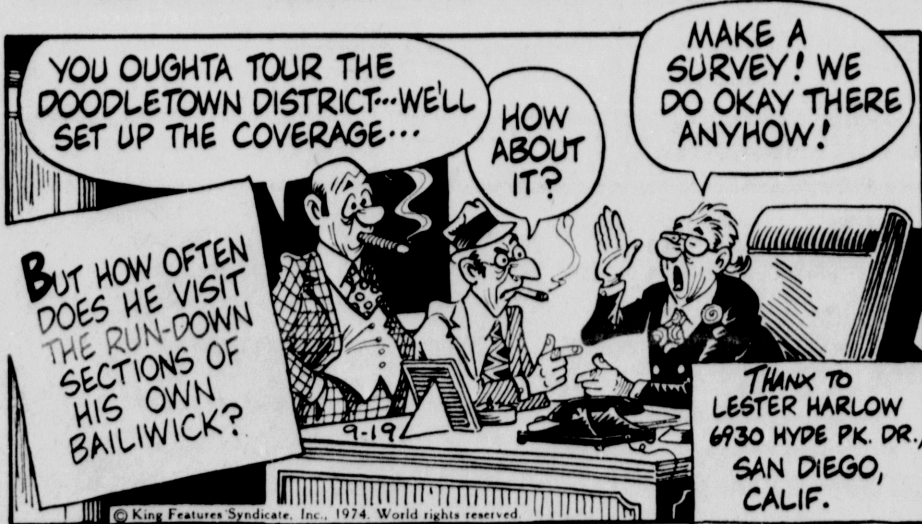

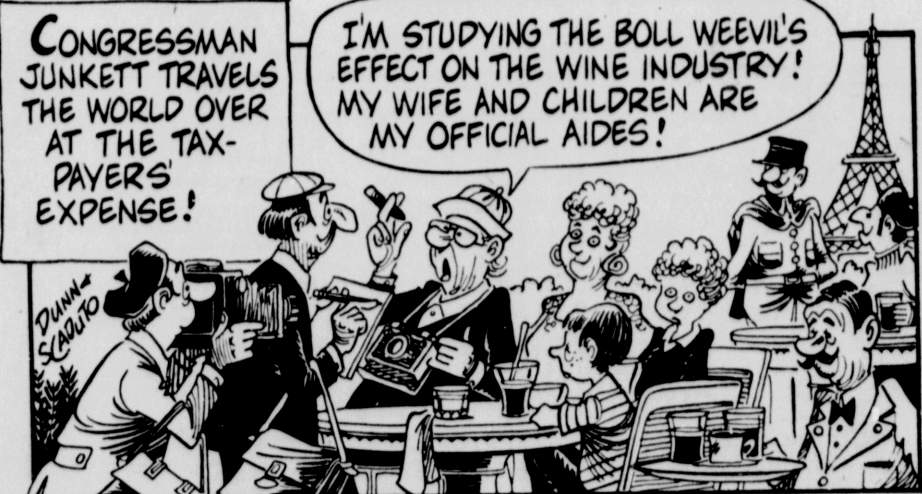

Nixon Blamed For Weight Gain

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Former President Nixon has been blamed for many things recently. Now people are blaming him for making them fat.

Dottie Kempf said the accusation came during a weigh in session at her weekly Diet Workshop classes. One of the class members reporting in after Nixon's resignation complained she had consoled herself by devouring a whole bag of corn chips.

Now that's definitely an original excuse," said Mrs. Kempf.

The Incas had no knowledge of the wheel, no draft animals and no beasts of burden other than the llama — strong enough to transport 80-pound loads over Andean trails but too frail to carry a man, National Geographic says.

Three Local Seniors Named Semifinalists

Three of the county's seniors have been named semifinalists in the 1975 National Merit Scholarship competition. From Circleville High School, Gary P. Anundson and Amy E. Curtis will compete for over 3,400 merit scholarships to be awarded in 1975. Mark F. Fillinger was named a semifinalist from Teays Valley High School.

Anundson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Anundson, 670 Hawthorn Drive, indicated on his application form when he took the test in 1973 that he was still undecided as to a career choice but indicated he would like to major in mathematics and statistics in college.

Circleville's second semifinalist, Miss Curtis, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Curtis, 505 Lawnwood Court. She stated that she plans to major in the sciences and pursue a career in that area.

The only semifinalist from the county schools was Mark F. Fillinger, a senior from Teays Valley High School. Fillinger is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Fillinger, Route 1, Lockbourne.

Merit semifinalists are the highest scorers in each state on the 1973 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Over one million students took the tests in about 17,000 schools nationwide and approximately 15,000 of these students were named semifinalists.

Semifinalists must qualify as finalists to advance in the competition for the Merit Scholarships. To become finalists, those students qualifying at present as semifinalists, must be endorsed by their schools, recommended for the scholarship consideration and confirm their test scores with an equivalent performance on a second examination. High academic performance and evidence of other accomplishments are also considered in the selection of the finalists.

Names of the finalists will be released in 1975 with the winners of corporate-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships being notified by April 9; winners of one-time National Merit $1,000 scholarships on April 23 and college sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships on April 30.

Family Reunion Real Humdinger

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Normal family reunions may be simple occasions, spiced with potato salad and lots of beer mixed between casual introductions and lazy conversations. Everybody knows who's who.

But, when a 43-year-old amateur genealogist armed with out-of-town telephone books and a 300-year-old plus family tree plans one, you could bet the result will not be a run-of-the-mill get-together.

Setting for the unusual result was Terrace Park Community Center Sept. 7. The diverse turnout probably would have made Laurens DeCamp, a stern-jawed French Huguenot who settled in America way back in 1664, stare.

Laurens DeCamp was the cause of it all—a whopping 11 generations of DeCamps, the last four of whom are spread across the country like melted butter on a hot pancake.

"They were everywhere from New York to California," said 43-year-old Crane DeCamp, the man who engineered the reunion. "No DeCamps were here from California, but I did get a letter from a lady out there who said she heard through the family grapevine that the DeCamps were having a reunion."

"She wanted to come but she said she wasn't invited." Crane DeCamp knew he had his work cut out for him two years ago when he decided to update the family genealogy book published in 1896. That's when he got the idea for the reunion.

"And, what better place to have it than Cincinnati?" he asked.

DeCamp makes his living as an architect in New York, but he was born in Cincinnati.

The DeCamp connection to Ohio began in 1812 when Ezekial DeCamp settled in Butler County just north of Cincinnati. He set the stage for a family reunion by fathering 12 boys and five girls.

"Those 17 are the common denominator for the 80 of us here at the reunion," said Crane DeCamp. "But, nobody knows yet just who came from whom."

DeCamp spent the day finding out. He had invited all 19 DeCamps in the Cincinnati telephone directory, plus many in Louisville, Ky.; Columbus, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Ind.

Back came many replies saying, "Yes, we have the book and were wondering who all those DeCamps were."

"The Book", as the DeCamps call it, begins with Laurens DeCamp and ends with a few family members after the birth of Crane's now deceased father, a mere 4-year-old when the book was published.

The assembled DeCamps studied huge charts tracing the DeCamps as Crane knew them. He was trying to find the direct descendant line of Ezekial. Others were trying to fill the gaps.

"I hope to finish the book in time for our nation's bicentennial in 1976," said Crane DeCamp. "I just wish we didn't wait so long between reunions."

The last time the DeCamps got together was 1871.

MRS. GEORGE BRIAN McCaULEY

Miss Donna E. Stephens Bride Of George McCauley

St. Andrew's Chapel of Woodberry Forest School, Orange, Va., was the setting for the wedding of Miss Donna Elizabeth Stephens and Lt. George Brian McCauley U.S.N. The Rev. George Barton performed the double ring service 2 p.m., Aug. 31st, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Cole, 645 Ridgewood Drive, Circleville and the late Ens. Don R. Stephens, and the son of Rear Adm. and Mrs. Brian McCauley, Washington D.C.

Mrs. Sidney Pace, organist, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony. The chapel altar was adorned with bouquets of yellow roses and white daisies, and the pews were marked with white bows holding yellow roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Robert Cole. For her wedding she selected an ivory peau de soie gown with empire waist, long sleeves with Venetian lace inserts, high neckline and V-necked bodice of Venetian lace complemented with a wide lace trim at the hemline. A Juliet cap held the floor length mantilla edged with Venetian lace. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Miss Cheryl Burton of Cincinnati was maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length sleeveless empire style gown of apple green linen trimmed with white braid at the neckline and waist. Her accessories were white and her wide brimmed hat of white woven straw was enhanced with green ribbon and streamers. She carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses and daisies.

Bridesmaids, Miss Jane Cole, sister of the bride and Miss Elizabeth McCauley of Washington D. C., were dressed similar to the maid of honor and carried yellow sweetheart roses and white daisies.

Miss Jennifer Cole, sister of the bride and Miss Mary McCauley, sister of the bridegroom, were junior bridesmaids. They were attired in long yellow linen dresses with short puffed sleeves, and white flowered trim at the neckline and waist. They carried yellow roses and white daisies.

Mr. Robert Adriance of Norfolk, Va., performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Paul Stephens, brother of the bride; Mr. David Clark of Richmond, Va.; Lt. Richard Hammond U.S.N. and Ens. Gary Roughhead U.S.N., both of Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Cole was attired in a beige lace gown over a taffeta skirt. Her accessories were white and her corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pale pink and white plaid chiffon gown with white accessories and a corsage of white and pink cymbidium orchids.

A reception in The President Madison Inn., Orange, Va. followed the ceremony. Yellow and white chrysanthemum arrangements graced the tables. The bride's cake was topped with yellow roses and white stephanotis. Hostesses were Miss Barbara Burke of Virginia Beach, Va. and Mrs. Richard Murdock of Washington D.C.

As the couple left for a wedding trip to Jamaica, the bride wore a white sleeveless dress with white accessories and carried a nosegay of yellow roses and white stephanotis. The couple now resides at 531 Fountain Lake Drive, Apt. 202, Virginia Beach, Va.

The bride graduated from Circleville High School and Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Chi Omega, and is currently employed as a computer programmer by ISSI, Virginia, Va.

Silence On Chile Extended 3 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 14 government officials have reported to Congress on American policy toward Chile between 1970 and 1973 without mentioning the covert U.S. activities exposed during the last 10 days.

According to most congressional and administration sources, former CIA director Richard M. Helms' testimony, is receiving the most attention by those looking into possible misstatements of fact about the American role in Chile.

President Ford acknowledged Monday night that American money was clandestinely funneled into Chile to preserve the opposition press and political parties after the election of Marxist President Salvador Allende in 1970. It was a rare public admission by an American president.

With the exception of CIA director William E. Colby, who testified before a closed House subcommittee session last April, no other government official reporting to Congress has admitted CIA actions against Allende.

Community Fund Drive

A total of $355, collected in advanced gifts, was reported at the noon meeting, Wednesday, by Dr. James River, chairman of the Pickaway County Community Fund. River stated he was quite pleased with the amount collected. The campaign is in its first week.

All divisions began soliciting for community fund Monday, aiming for a total of $93,000.

River also told the chairmen to proceed with collections, despite the fact that there may not be any stickers to give to contributors. The company, manufacturing the stickers, failed to meet the community fund deadline.

Additional spot posters, smaller posters showing the amount collected and displayed in various business, will be distributed throughout the city and county.

More volunteers are needed in county east. Any person wishing to help, should contact Jerry Leist, 474-2673.

Ohio Bell Plan Rapped

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — About 70 telephone operators here have expressed disapproval of an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. plan to centralize operations in Southwestern Ohio.

The Rev. Ruby Pringle, who said he had been asked to speak for the operators, asked the Middletown city commissioners Tuesday to "See to the feasibility of expenditures it would cost to encourage Ohio Bell to agree that the traffic operation could remain in Middletown."

Don Murphy, president of Local 4317, Communications Workers of America, said after the meeting he had been informed in July that all Ohio Bell operations in Southwestern Ohio, except in the Cincinnati area would be transferred to a centralized office in Dayton by September 1976.

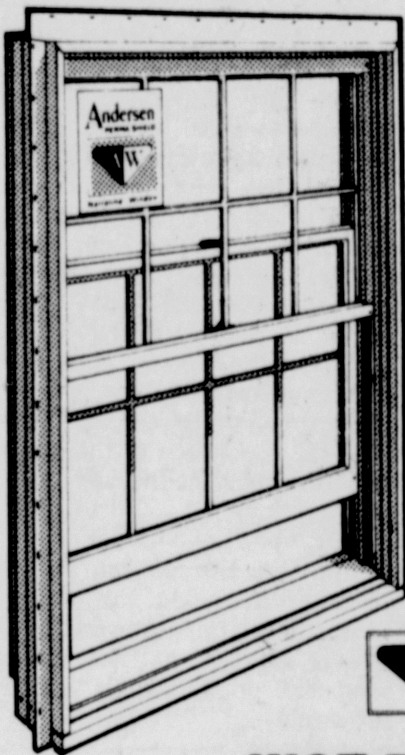

The Rev. Pringle said operators were not objecting to progress, but were concerned about having to commute to Dayton and the possibility of having to relocate.

Murphy said the company contended it will save $319,000 a year in salaries at Middletown, which will continue as an office facility. He also noted that they anticipated a possible elimination of 40 of the 70 jobs because of the move.

We don't like the increases in the price of anything any more than you do. It's painful and unwanted, whether it's a pound of sugar or a kilowatt hour of electricity.

To us our recent rate increase is welcome... it helps... but it doesn't solve all of our problems. The rate increase only covers the cost of our facilities through June, 1972. As of June, 1974, we have spent $145,000,000 for construction and the present increase doesn't cover these costs.

When expenses out-pace income... you have to cut the expenses. So even with the increase in rates, it is still necessary to defer construction of some of our planned generating facilities. This will save $224,000,000 in construction expenditures through 1978. But it also postpones the in-service dates of four generating units which are so vital to serve you and the 1,250,000 people who live and work in central and southern Ohio.

Even with the increase in electric rates, electricity is still a good buy when compared to other items in the family budget... If you don't think so... look around.

Ohio Banks Safe, Official Declares

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Even in a year when the Federal Reserve has had to rescue large banks on the East and West coasts, depositors of Ohio banks have little to worry about, the state's new superintendent of banks says.

But Robert A. Richard adds that Ohio needs more bank examiners to ensure that depositor confidence is justified.

The Ohio Division of Banks has increased its staff of examiners from 33 to 38 since he took over July 1, Richard said. Seven more are slated to be added by the end of next month.

That force should be able to audit all 283 state banks each year as the Ohio code requires, he said.

Richard's predecessor, Stephen J. Kohn, resigned last March, complaining his department had too little money to audit state banks properly. Kohn, now a vice president and chief economist for Union Commerce Bank here, has urged that money for bank audits come from industries requiring regulation not state funds.

Ohio banks have not overexpanded despite such a tendency in recent years, Richard says.

"Ohioans are essentially sound, prudent bankers compared with others around the nation," he says. "At the same time, they keep pace with their industry's new developments and serve the public adequately."

Most state banks are heeding the Federal Reserve Board and consolidating their position for greater capital strength after the exuberant expansion of recent years, says the former chief economist for Cleveland's Federal Reserve Bank.

He says the lending strength of many small banks in small communities is being increased through mergers or acquisitions of holding companies.

Property Appraisal Change Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A temporary legislative commission investigating ways to equalize the flow of state money to Ohio schools has approved study of a plan to reappraise taxable property in local school districts by classification.

The proposal was okayed by the Education and Administration Review Commission after a consultant reported that the current county-by-county reassessment of taxable property was not stopping inequities in state aid to elementary and secondary schools.

The amount of state funding to school districts is determined primarily by the site of local support from property taxes. School districts with low tax yields generally receive more state help than supposedly richer districts in meeting a certain minimum amount per student.

However, because the current reappraisal of property values "deal with only some of the districts at any given time," Dr. Robert J. Goettel said districts in non-reappraised counties are often shortchanged.

Goettel, the associate director of the Syracuse University Research Corp., also told the commission that school districts had an incentive to keep their assessed property valuation low. "The lower you can keep it," he said, "the more state aid you can get."

As an alternative to the ongoing countywide reappraisals, the Syracuse research team suggested that real property in school districts be reappraised by classification—commercial, industrial, agricultural and residential.

Clara Weisenborn, R-5 Dayton, approved a study of this alternative as a possible recommendation to the General Assembly. The senate-house committee was created by the 110th Assembly and given a life-span of one year to study ways of revamping the complicated school foundation formula.

If approved, Goettel said, reappraisal of property value by classification in school districts would be implemented by the Department of Education and operate independently of the county reappraisals with the aim of equalizing local tax bases where warranted.

The commission scheduled its next open session for Oct. 2.

Drug Battles Common Cold

CHICAGO (AP) — University of Illinois researchers say an experimental drug significantly increases the body's defenses against the common cold and may be the answer to control of the ailment.

The drug, propanediamine, stimulates an increase in the body's natural production of interferon, a chemical that defends the body against viral and some other infections.

Because interferon is effective against all viruses, it has been considered promising in the control of respiratory infections, such as the cold.

Colds are caused by so many types of viruses that a vaccine against all of them is thought impractical.

The scientists at the university's medical school in Chicago said they used 39 young volunteers to study the effects of propanediamine.

Writing in the New England Journal of Medicine, the scientists said the results of their study make them optimistic that ultimately effective drugs can be developed for the common cold and other viral respiratory infections.

An editorial in the journal points out that the limitation on use of the drug is that it must be administered throughout the period in which a person might catch a cold.

And it notes that the production of interferon decreases with repeated stimulation.

Fifteen subjects in the Illinois experiment were given the new drug via nose drops. Then they were exposed to cold-causing viruses.

They developed either no cold symptoms or so few that they were considered insignificant.

Other subjects not given the drug were exposed to the same viruses. They developed severe colds.

Doctors' Insurance Costs Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Most Ohio physicians have had the cost of their professional liability insurance at least triple in the past five years without being involved in malpractice lawsuits, Department of Insurance officials have been told.

James Pohlman, a Columbus attorney who represents the Ohio State Medical Association, gave that testimony Wednesday at a day-long fact-finding hearing on medical malpractice insurance.

Director Kenneth L. DeShelter called the hearings as part of a broader effort—by the governor's Health Care Task Force—to look into the increasing costs of medical services in Ohio.

Pohlman and other expert witnesses representing the legal, insurance, and medical professions provided data which DeShelter said will be studied to see if new laws or administrative regulations are needed. He indicated some recommendations may be ready in about two months.

Pohlman cited rates of one major insurer of physicians for policies in the $100,000-$300,000 range which went from $1,080 a year as of Jan. 1, 1969 to $3,217 on July 1, 1974.

Surgeons pay much more, as evidenced by the testimony of Dr. P. S. Test of Mansfield who has to pay about $14,000 while performing from 500 to 600 operations a year.

Eye Compromise On Parks Plan

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — The state has indicated a willingness to compromise on its master plan for recreational development of Kelleys and South Bass Islands, a member of the Ottawa County Planning Commission said Wednesday.

In a letter to the commission, Department of Natural Resources Director William B. Nye said the plan should only be regarded as a source of background information to use for possible development of the Lake Erie islands.

The letter responded to the commission's criticism of the $40 million plan which would expand existing state parks on the two islands.

Girl Scouts Keep Busy In Service

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is part of a series prepared by the Pickaway County Community Fund for the Herald, describing the 10 agencies which benefit from the annual campaign drive.

Girl Scouting, one of the Pickaway County Community Fund agencies, is fun for girls 6-17 and for the adults who believe in the purpose of Girl Scouting which is "to inspire girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism, and service that they may become happy and resourceful citizens".

Pickaway County is a member of the Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council which is made up of 16 neighboring counties. Pickaway County is divided into two service units, Logan Trails and Tri-Plains, each with a director who sees that enough adults are recruited and given the help they need to serve the girls in this county. During 1973 there were 224 men and women that served as leaders, troop committee members, service team members, council delegates, council nominating committee members and at present have two serving on the Board of Directors of the Council.

Girl Scouts of Logan Trails and Tri-Plains Service Units took part in many community activities such as marching in the Pumpkin Show, Ashville Fourth of July and Memorial Day parades. They also displayed their projects at Pumpkin Show and

Otterbein Plans High School Day

WESTERVILLE—High school juniors and seniors from Circleville are invited to High School Day, Oct. 5, at Otterbein College in Westerville.

"Spend Some Time at the 'Bein'" is the theme of the day-long program, according to Dean of Admissions Morris Briggs.

Beginning with 8 a.m. registration, High School Day activities conclude with an Ohio Conference football tilt between the Otterbein Cardinals and Ohio Wesleyan. Special feature of the 7:30 game will be a half-time presentation by the Otterbein Cardinal Marching Band under the direction of band specialist Bill Moffit from the University of Houston.

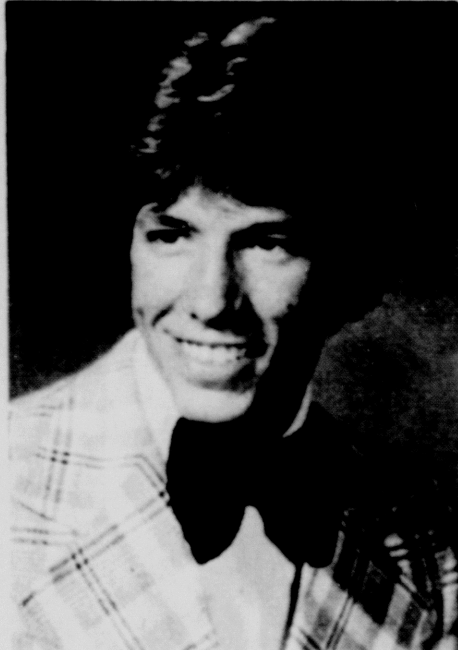

Throughout the day, visiting high school students will have opportunities to visit with faculty and students, hear panel discussions about career planning and financial aid, visit a student activities fair and see displays by Otterbein's 18 academic departments.

A complimentary lunch will be served each visiting student.

Local high school students who want further information are advised by Briggs to contact guidance counselors at their high school or to write Admissions, Otterbein College, Westerville, Ohio 43081.

Two More Boys Featured In 'Who's Who'

Two local teenagers were among the numerous students who have been notified they will be featured in the eighth annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students". They are Perry B. Hoskins and Ted Ross.

PERRY B. HOSKINS

Hoskins is a senior at Circleville High School where he is active in football, basketball, baseball, Stooze Club and student council. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hoskins, 124 Parkview Ave. He has been named president of his class for the past three years and is captain of the 1974-75 football and basketball teams.

Upon graduation from CHS in June, Hoskins plans to attend college.

Ross is a senior at Teays Valley High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley B. Ross, Route 1, Lockbourne. At TV, Ross is active in the Key Club, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and has been a member of the high school football, wrestling and track teams.

At 145 pounds, Ross won the Metropolitan League wrestling title. Upon graduation, he plans to attend college to pursue a career in coaching.

No Big Grain Shipments Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pledge by President Ford that the United States will spend more on food aid for poor countries will not mean a return of the massive grain shipments that highlighted such efforts a decade ago.

Ford told the United Nations on Wednesday he is in favor of efforts to maintain an international system of food reserves but insisted each country must manage its own supplies.

"Finally, to make certain that the more immediate needs for food are met this year, the United States will not only maintain the amount spent for food shipments to nations in need, but will increase this amount," Ford said.

There was no cost figure mentioned, and Agriculture Department officials said no solid estimate was available to indicate what Ford had in mind. The department had planned about $1 billion for the current fiscal year to operate the 20-year-old Food for Peace program.

But Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz conceded recently it would take about the entire amount to equal Food for Peace shipment quantities which cost around $800 million in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

One USDA official speculated privately that $1.4 billion or more might be required. But he said that figure would not provide much increase in the actual quantity of food that might be shipped.

Huge U.S. stockpiles of wheat and other grains that were available until a couple of years ago have been diminished to levels hardly sufficient for normal domestic and export use while prices have soared.

Thus, when the government shops for food to send to hungry countries, it finds, like the housewife, that the dollar buys less to eat.

According to the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, $848.7 million was spent in the year ended last June 30 for 3.2 million metric tons of Food for Peace commodities.

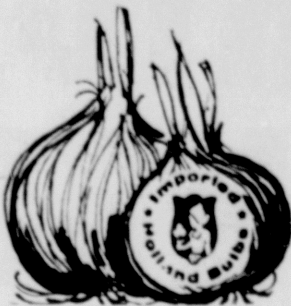

A year earlier, when prices were much lower, it cost $733.5 million for 7.1 million tons.

Last April, when it looked as if huge crops of wheat and corn were forthcoming, USDA predicted larger quantities of grain would be available for aid in 1974-75.

Tigers Continue Athens Rivalry Friday

The Circleville Tigers will attempt to get back on the winning track Friday when they make the long trip to Athens in the continuation of a strong rivalry between the two schools.

Athens has won eight games in the 12-game series thus far.

But the Bulldogs have been tagged with two losses to open the season, and the inexperienced offensive squad has not scored a point.

Athens was blanked 14-0 by Marietta in the season opener and lost to Lancaster 21-0 last Friday.

The blanking by Marietta was the result of inexperience. On the first play of the game, a pass carried the Bulldogs to the five-yard-line. But the drive was stopped.

An Athens receiver dropped a ball in the endzone another time, and the quarterback fumbled on the one on another series.

The offense is led by junior quarterback Arnie Chonko a 188-pounder is 10 of 25 in the passing department for 203 yards and one interception.

The running punch is led by Todd Elwood, a 144-pound junior; John Hull, a 168 pound senior; and Jerry Cunningham, another senior who weighs 150 pounds.

McNaughton the defensive line Tiger for the second straight week; and Brent Mancini, the defensive back Tiger. There was no specialty team Tiger of the Week.

There will be some changes in the Tiger starting lineup.

Phil Roll will start at quarterback, Jim Arledge will be the offensive right tackle, and Biff Bumgarner will start at tailback.

However, the fourth quarter appears to be the weakest as the opponents have managed 17 of their points in the closing minutes.

Mistakes and a lack of a potent kicking attack have surfaced as the weakest points in the Tiger attack.

Circleville is averaging only about 25 yards in 10 punts so far, giving away good field position. And the Tigers have lost two of five fumbles.

There has been only one sustained scoring drive on the CHS defense, and that, by Grove City, was helped along by several key penalties against the Tigers.

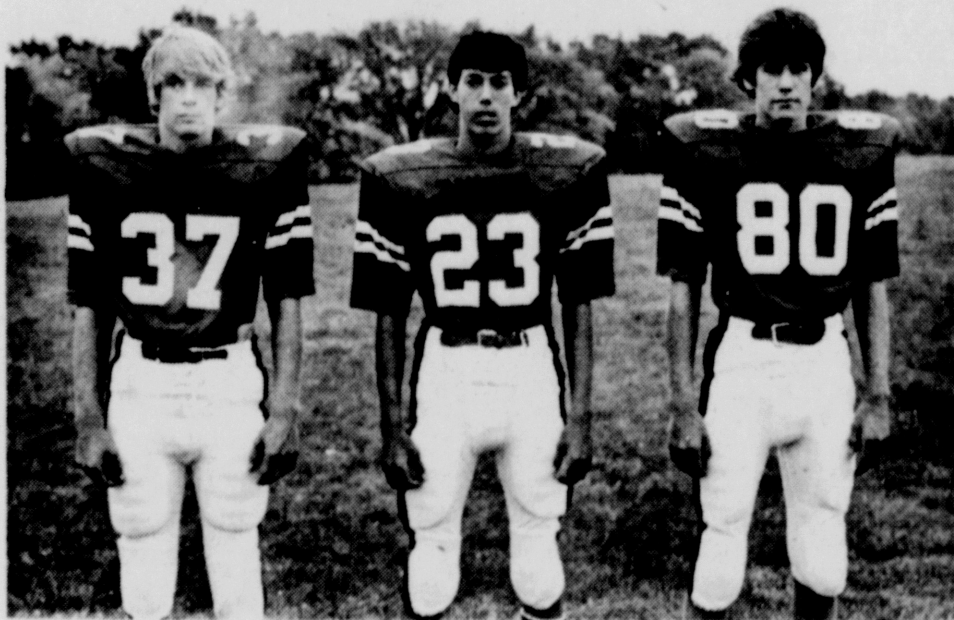

The other touchdowns were the result of fumbles and other miscues.

Circleville has been red-flagged for 105 yards in the two games.

Meet The Tigers

Sophomore members of the Circleville Tigers include Bill Mogan (37), a fullback and linebacker; Frank McGuire (23), a wingback and defensive halfback; and Tom McGuire (80), an offensive and defensive end. Mogan is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Mogan, 350 Edwards Rd. McGuire is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Merrill, 230 Lewis Rd. McGuire is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom McGuire, 295 Sunset Dr.

They have not been effective, although they are primarily a running team.

Against Marietta, the Bulldogs managed only 30 yards rushing, and against Lancaster they rushed for 29.

The Bulldog offensive line is paced by Jay Graham, a 5-10, 194-pound senior who plays right guard, and Bill Greer, a 6-3, 225-pound junior who plays right tackle.

Graham is the defensive middle guard and Greer the left defensive tackle.

The Athens punter, Steve Green, comes from a long line of kickers. He is the brother of Mike Green, punter for the Ohio University Bobcats, and Dave Green, punter for the Cincinnati Bengals.

Green has averaged 32 yards in 10 kicks this year.

Kicking and an inconsistent offense were blamed by the Tiger coaching staff for last Friday's loss to Teays Valley.

In the game, the Tigers punted nine times for only a 20-yard average and had one blocked that led to a Viking touchdown.

The coaching staff, after viewing game films, blamed the three front blockers for lining up too deep and causing the punter to shorten his stride by two yards.

The offense, which sputtered under the Viking pressure, finally scored late in the game on the only sustained drive by either team. That should have been enough to win the game, coaches felt.

No black or incentive helmet stars were awarded for the game because the Tigers lost.

However, Scott Bowman was named offensive line Tiger; Phil Roll the offensive back Tiger; Tim

Dodgers, Reds Both Lose

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer
Doesn't anybody want to win the West in the National League?
Neither the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers nor the runner-up Cincinnati Reds, the two winningest teams in baseball, are acting like pennant contenders.

Both lost for the second straight time Wednesday night, leaving the Dodgers with a 2½-game lead. Los Angeles was beaten by the Houston Astros 3-2 in 10 innings and Cincinnati dropped a 6-5 decision to the San Diego Padres.

Meanwhile, the National League East race tightened, the Pittsburgh Pirates whittling St. Louis' lead to 1½ games, beating the Cardinals 4-1.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Montreal Expos swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 3-2 and 4-0, the Chicago Cubs topped the Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 and the Atlanta Braves downed the San Francisco Giants 4-2.

Rookie outfielder Greg Gross was Houston's hero. He started an uprising in the eighth inning when the Astros broke a scoreless tie with two runs. He threw out the potential winning run at the plate in the ninth inning, and he scored the winning run in the 10th.

The Dodgers, shackled by Larry Dierker on four hits through eight innings, tied it dramatically in the ninth on Steve Garvey's single and Ken McMullen's pinch homer off reliever

Robinson, Tribe Top Brewers, 6-3

MILWAUKEE (AP) — With 573 career home runs to his credit, Frank Robinson of the Cleveland Indians has become a thinking man's homer hitter.

"What is important to me is the clutch hit," he said. "The home run is great, but if it doesn't mean anything, it is hard to consider it too important."

It wasn't hard to fathom the importance of his 573rd round trip Wednesday. It highlighted Cleveland's four-run sixth inning and anchored the Indians to a 6-3 conquest of the Milwaukee Brewers.

"I get a jolt out of every one of them," he said. "You never get used to that; I don't anyway. It is a nice feeling."

Milwaukee tapped Cleveland starter Dick Bosman for a run in the second inning on an error and Pedro Garcia's single.

The Brewers made it 3-0 in the third on George Scott's double, Johnny Briggs' triple and Darrel Porter's grounder.

Losing pitcher Kevin Kobel (6-13) was working on a no-hitter through five innings.

Then, in the sixth, Cleveland's Dave Duncan led off with a walk, Angel Hermoso reached base on Scott's fumble of a grounder, and John Lowenstein doubled to score Duncan.

A sacrifice fly scored Hermoso, and Lowenstein came home as Robinson lofted his 21st homer of the season into the leftfield bleachers.

The blast further secured Robinson in fourth place on the roster of home-run leaders, trailing Hank Aaron, Babe Ruth and Willie Mays.

Dwight Wilkens Rips Woody Hayes' Rule

CINCINNATI (AP) — A former Ohio State University football player says, Coach Woody Hayes' iron-fisted rule left many athletes bitter and disillusioned.

Dwight Wilkens, who made the trip to the 1973 Rose Bowl as a sophomore with the Buckeyes, said Wednesday, "I saw a lot of good football players go to waste up there."

"And I've seen so many young men absolutely fed up...destroyed, that they'd leave school without a degree," said Wilkens, who dropped out of Ohio State and transferred to the University of Cincinnati.

California Angel manager Dick Williams was traded five times during his playing career.

Joe Paterno is in his 25th season of football at Penn State. This is his ninth year as head coach.

Mike Cosgrove. Then, Ron Cey greeted reliever Ken Forsch with a double, and Rick Auerbach was sent in as a pinch runner.

Joe Ferguson followed with a single to right, but Gross fired a perfect strike to the plate, cutting down Auerbach.

In the 10th, with Charlie Hough pitching for the Dodgers, Gross cracked a single and raced home with the winning run on Bob Watson's double.

The Reds' chances of winning the West for the third straight year diminished. Cincinnati has 12 games remaining and Los Angeles 13.

Light-hitting Enzo Hernandez, who said he never had driven in more than two runs in a game, knocked in four for San Diego. Hernandez singled home two runs in the fifth inning, giving the Padres a 3-1 lead, then doubled in two runs in the seventh, producing a 5-5 deadlock. Hernandez eventually scored the winning run on John Grubb's sacrifice fly.

Pirates 4, Cardinals 1
Jim Rooker hurled a six-hitter for his 13th victory and Al Oliver doubled in two runs, boosting the Pirates past the Cardinals — and ending sixgame streaks for both teams. The Pirates had lost six in a row and St. Louis had won six in a row.

Expos 3-4, Mets 2-0
The Expos won the opener with a two-run seventh inning, capped by Tim Foli's run-scoring squeeze bunt single. They took the nightcap behind the combined four-hit pitching of rookies Dennis Blair and Dale Murray.

Relievers Steve Stone and Ken Frailing then completed a five-hitter.

Hank Aaron, baseball's alltime home run king, drove in two runs with his 732nd homer and a single, and Rowland Office smacked a two-run triple for the Braves. The homer was the 19th of the season for the 40-year-old Aaron, who is playing his final year in the majors.

CJHS Plays To 0-0 Tie

Circleville had 92 yards total offense running 49 offensive plays to 26 for Ewing.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

There's a hint of fall in the air and it would be fun to snuggle down with a good story book on a cool night. A cup of warm cocoa and a soft pillow would really make story time fun.

For a little adventure there is "Henry the Castaway." Henry and his dog boldly set out to chart unexplored seas, only to get lost during a storm. After the storm, however, there is a happy reunion with his folks.

Tom, the central character in "Boy, Was I Mad" also runs away, but just for the day. He finds so many entertaining things to do that he forgets his anger and ends his adventure in a good mood.

There are mysterious footprints and strange sounds in the night. This all adds up to a good ghost story, "The Midnight Ghost" by Carol York. It's not really too scary for bedtime and it also could be read independently by a 2nd grader.

"My Mama Says There Aren't Any Zombies, Ghosts, Vampires, Creatures, Demons, Monsters, Fiends, Goblins, or Things" may be the longest title for a children's book in English. The wonderfully spooky drawings highlight a wry little tale about a highly imaginative boy whose mother doesn't believe there are really any monsters lurking about. After all the creatures finish parading through the pages there is a warm and happy surprise ending to the story.

Another adventure, "The Runaway Roller Skate" is a feast for the eyes. A superb chase story, the background scenery is vividly detailed and will hold the reader's attention.

Christopher has a dog Rasty who gets into all kinds of trouble in "The Terrible Terrier" by Edith Battles. Rasty is ferocious and evil tempered, but he loves Chris and his readers will love him.

"Sammy's Sister" is one of a series of books dealing with common family problems. In this story, Sammy's world changes abruptly with the arrival of his new sister. Although he is resentful, he becomes very protective when his friend Jeff makes the baby cry. "Frances" has to cope with a new addition to the family in "A Baby Sister for Frances." Tenderly Mother wins Frances over with the promise of chocolate cake and many happy days together. "Babies are very nice" says Mother, "but a baby is not a family." Father agrees.

Dog lovers will go for Patricia Lauber's latest, "Clarence and the Burglar." Children will cheer as Clarence, a nondescript little pup nabs a burglar and ends up on the front pages. Miss Lauber's first book many years ago was written about Clarence for older readers and was patterned after real life escapades of her own

For the second day Ohio experienced heavy fog in the early morning Thursday after a night of clear skies. After the ground fog disappeared later in the morning the day was forecast as being mostly sunny.

The expected sunshine and an increasing southerly air flow will warm the rather cool nighttime temperatures into the 70s and lower 80s during the afternoon.

Temperatures at dawn across the state ranged from the upper 40s and lower 50s north to the mid 50s south.

A cold front now located in the western Great Lakes and northern Plains region is forecast to move across Ohio late tonight and Friday morning, accompanied by scattered showers and thundershowers and cooler temperatures.

Milk Price Meeting Said Productive

WASHINGTON (AP)—A National Farmers Union delegation came away from a White House meeting Wednesday with a feeling of accomplishment in its efforts to gain increased price support for milk.

"We had a very, very productive meeting," said Jack Rose, Ohio Farmers Union president and co-chairman of the nearly hour-long conference with Dr. Norman Ross, associate director of the Domestic Council.

"Ross was very receptive to our problems and is going to relay our message to the President and the secretary of agriculture," Rose said. Rose said the delegation of 12 representatives from the major milk-producing states included another Ohioan, Max McMichael of Spencerville in Allen County.

Rose said the government must increase the price paid to dairy farmers for milk or the nation may be threatened with a milk shortage.

"We gave the White House a lot of statistical information they didn't have," Rose said. "I don't think they realized before the problem is as serious as it is."

U.S. Department of Agriculture figures show that 1,000 dairy farmers in Ohio alone have gone out of business since July 1973 and the state's milk production has dropped 20 per cent from a decade ago.

"The picture in Ohio is serious," Rose said. "We're afraid that too many farmers are going to quit the dairy business and the state will lose a valuable industry."

According to Tony Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, milk production in the U.S. is at its lowest since the Depression year of 1936.

Motorcycle Accident Injures 3

Ten-year-old Martha E. McKay, Route 5, was treated and released from Berger Hospital for a fractured arm and multiple abrasions received when she was struck by a motorcycle, 3:25 p.m. Wednesday.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Fite, David E. Harden, 22, 208 E. Town St., was traveling north on the East Ringgold-Southern Road cresting a small hill, when he observed several children playing in the road.

As Harden approached the youngsters, the McKay girl ran in front of the cycle.

Both Harden and a passenger, Brenda K. Fluty, 17, Route 5, were thrown from the cycle.

Ms. Fluty was treated and released from Berger Hospital for abrasions and a puncture wound.

Harden was admitted to Berger for multiple contusions, abrasions and lacerations.

Deputy Fite cited Harden for driving without an operator's permit.

John W. Neuding Jr., 47, 216 W. Mill St., was referred to a doctor for injuries received in a single-car accident 3:30 a.m. today, investigated by Deputy Billy Huffman.

Neuding stated he fell asleep while driving south on the Circleville-Groveport Road.

The vehicle went off the left berm striking a utility pole.

Report Mosquito Population Large Across State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mosquitoes are on the rise.

The Ohio Health Department reports the mosquito population across the state is generally up.

Recent heavy rains, following a long summer drought, are primarily to blame for the increase, said Margaret Parsons, medical entomologist in the health department's communicable diseases division.

Flooding Continues In Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Record flooding caused by unusually heavy rains persisted today in parts of Texas as rainfall continued.

Flash flood watches remained in effect for central and southern portions of the state. Water was a few inches deep in homes on the northwest side of Abilene, where authorities said the worst flooding probably was over.

The North Concho River rose 12 to 15 feet in the San Angelo area, and the highway to Big Bend National Park was closed. The upper Colorado River at Silver, Tex., is expected to crest more than 11 feet above the record stage of 17.68 feet.

A little over half an inch of rain fell Wednesday night at Lubbock, Tex., and National Weather Service radar indicated heavier rains in other parts of west Texas.

A cold front caused overcast skies and some rains early today from the northern Rockies into the upper Great Lakes.

Fog and low clouds limited visibility in many sections of the Appalachians and along the California coast.

A few scattered showers dampened parts of New Mexico and Arizona, while the rest of the nation had fair skies.

In the Northeast, temperatures before dawn dropped into the low to mid 40s, while most of the nation reported temperatures in the 50s and 60s. Temperatures ranged from 30 degrees at Houlton, Maine, to 85 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Blythe, Calif.

Worst of the pesky insects are the woodland mosquitoes, which can carry California encephalitis, the only mosquito-borne disease in the area.

Miss Parsons said about 35 cases of the disease are reported annually. So far this year, she added, the count is two — one in Avon Lake and one in Mansfield.

The disease usually affects children under 15, causing fever, headaches, nausea, back pain and general malaise. It's seldom fatal, she said, although it sometimes requires hospitalization.

Miss Parsons advises the mosquito-prone to stay out of wooded areas, keep their homes well-screened and remain indoors during peak mosquito hours — at dawn and dusk.

"If people are fortunate enough to live in an area where there is a mosquito control program," she said, "the control units ought to be operating."

Individuals can aid mosquito control by emptying bird baths and wading pools once a week and getting rid of such water catchers as bottles, cans and old tires.

Other than that, Miss Parsons said, about all you can do is wait for the first frost to kill the insects.

Pig Watch Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has dropped a plan which would have let the federal government watch all pigs crossing state lines.

Last May the department proposed a uniform system requiring that all swine shipped from one state to another be identified so the animals could be traced in case of disease problems.

But officials said Wednesday more than 9,300 comments were received from farmers, shippers and others and that about 75 per cent were opposed to the idea.

"On the basis of all comments received, it is apparent that it would not be feasible to effectively implement the proposed regulations," the department said.

Y Offers Gymnastic Program

Since the Olympic competitions were viewed on national television, gymnastics has become increasingly popular, both as a sport and as a form of exercise and physical discipline.

The Pickaway County Family YMCA has taken the lead in specializing in this sport in the county by organizing classes for all levels from beginners to advanced with the view of eventually forming a team.

Following the policy of obtaining the best instructors available, the YMCA has retained the services of Robert Sherman, who is manager and instructor of the American Gymnasts Inc. in Columbus.

Sherman will not only teach gymnastics at its very best, but also be able to instruct in the finer points of the sport necessary for competition.

Classes will be held on Saturdays at the YMCA gym and will include, Beginners at 1 to 2:30 p.m., with a minimum age of eight years; Intermediate Class, 2:30 to 4 p.m. and Advanced and Team Organization from 4 to 6 p.m.

Women's exercise classes will be directed by Joan Eller on Monday and Wednesday evenings and Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

Beamers and Tumblers, an introductory course in gymnastics for young girls ages 4 through 7 is planned and "Tumbling and Acrobatics" will be offered for boys, first grade and older.

Joan Eller will be the instructor for a pre-school "Fun and Fitness" class for the pre-schooler, ages 3 through 6, and Girls Seasonal Sports, including soccer, speed ball, volley ball etc. will be instructed by Judy Cook on Saturdays.

The Karate program under the direction of David Watts will offer a coed class and also a class for men and boys on Tuesday evenings.

Registrations are now open at the YMCA office for all of the classes.

Workshop Set At Old Man's Cave

BOWLING GREEN—An associate professor of geology at Bowling Green State University will lead a geology workshop Oct. 4-6 to Old Man's Cave in Hocking County.

Dr. Jane Forsyth, a lecturer on popular geology for non-geologic audiences, will teach the workshop sponsored by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources Division of Parks and Recreation.

The workshop is part of a series designed to help Ohioans become more familiar with the natural history of their home state.

Participants will stay overnight at Old Man's Cave Lodge 40 miles southeast of Columbus near Logan.

During evening lectures Dr. Forsyth will explain what geology is and will discuss rock formation, prehistoric geology and environmental geology, or the relation of geology to the environment and life of man.

Field trips through the park will be held during the day on Saturday and Sunday (Oct. 5-6) enabling participants to learn to interpret geologic history through observation.

Families and other groups are welcome to take part in the workshop.

For registration information, write the Ohio Department of Natural Resources Division of Parks and Recreation, Fountain Square, Building C, Columbus, Ohio 43224.

'Truth' Concert Set Tonight

Music enthusiasts are reminded of the "Truth" Concert, 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Circleville High School Auditorium.

The 16-member group will provide contemporary Christian music for people of all ages.

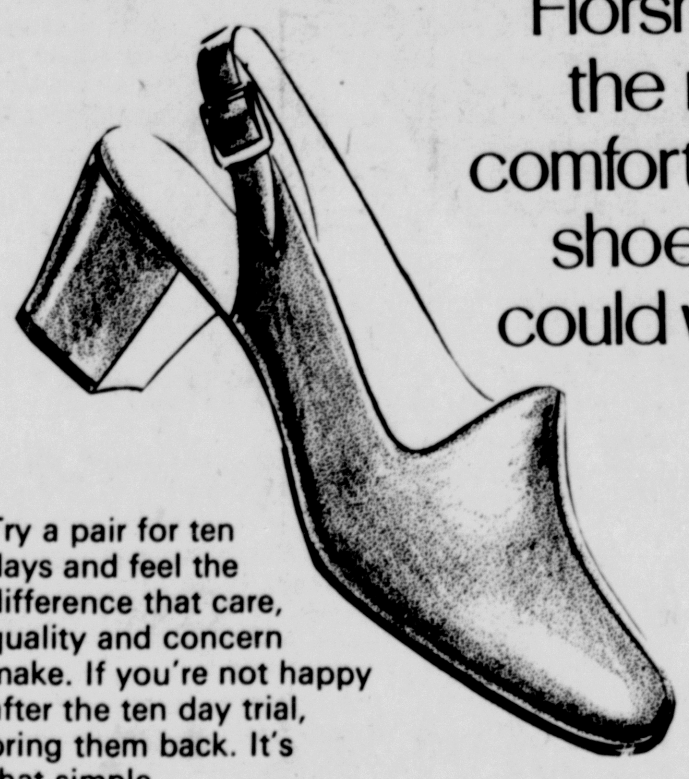

The doors will open at 6:45 p.m. with tickets also available at that time.

Tools Taken From Home

An estimated $830 worth of power tools were taken from the Howard Huffman residence, Route 1, Lockbourne, during a theft investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Billy Huffman.

The thieves entered the Huffman trailer, sometime between 11 a.m. and 5:45 p.m. Wednesday taking the items.

The report indicated entry to the mobile home was gained without force.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Some complications indicated in personal and money matters. Beware of instability, emotionalism. Consult with others as to the best way to get on the productive road.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Break your day down to definite essentials and eliminate the unimportant. Do not engage in untried ventures except where "dry runs" seem feasible.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Wait for cues before launching any project. An activity-happy person such as yourself could get into difficult situations if not on guard.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Generous influences stimulate your ingenuity and imagination. Use both well, and the rewards will please. Reach for the unusual; study new trends.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Avoid a present tendency toward impulsiveness. In moments of stress, slow down — rather than take steps to a position from which it may be hard to extricate yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Things should be fairly stable in both your business and personal life now. Incentive and ambitions, teamed up, should help to bring ultimate objectives more clearly in focus.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You may have mixed feelings about some matters, a sense of confusion. Take sufficient time to learn what is expected of you and how best to go about it. And DON'T worry!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Differences of opinion need not result in rifts. Get together with those concerned and, with calmness and your innate sense of humor, you can straighten out any situation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Fine Jupiter influences encourage present efforts. Especially favored: financial affairs, organizational interests, satisfactory conclusions to complex business negotiations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Good aspects. Occupational interests, educational pursuits and research especially favored. Some changes in the making are for the best.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You now have a wonderful chance to display your ingenuity and possibly think up a new way to present an old idea which could still be feasible if properly worked out.

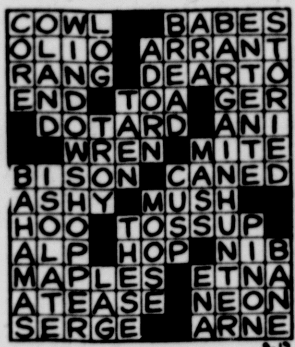

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Favorable aspects stimulate originality and some chance-taking — if reasonable! But don't go out on the proverbial limb and DO avoid extremism.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly knowledgeable person, with creative ability, and gifted along scientific and educational lines. You have a capacity for hard work, meticulous attention to detail, and are outstandingly trustworthy. Sometimes you lack self-confidence but, if you can overcome this, there are no heights you cannot reach — especially in the fields of dramatic writing, acting, statesmanship, diagnostic medicine or as a business leader. Birthdate of: Upton Sinclair, author; Sophia Loren, film star.

Ford's Address Brings Tiny Hope

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — President Ford's address to the 29th General Assembly stirred only timid and guarded hope among proponents of international action to deal with staggering world food problems.

The President promised the assembly on Wednesday that the United States would spend more on food shipments to needy countries and increase technical aid to their food production programs. He also said the U.S. government is ready to negotiate a world food reserve plan.

But he pointed out that the problems of food shortages, oil prices and runaway inflation are all related. He warned the 137 other members of the United Nations:

"Failure to cooperate on oil, food and inflation could spell disaster for every nation represented in this room. The United Nations must not and need not allow this to occur. A global strategy for food and energy is urgently required."

Even the guardedly hopeful suggest that progress thus far has been minimal toward this goal of concerted international efforts to avert future calamity in much of the world.

Attempts to produce concrete results toward curbing the growth of populations got nowhere at the recent Bucharest conference, where bickering about ideology and national interests eclipsed the business at hand.

Nations being nations, other conferences have run afoul of such things as jealousy over sovereignties, over ideology and over questions of who gives what and who gets what and how much.

That's happening again in the case of food problems.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said this week that governments should display more give and take, be more willing to "give up some of their selfish interests and be ready to cooperate on an international basis." He said failure to do so was the main reason there had been no breakthrough, for example, at the recent Law of the Sea Conference in Caracas, Venezuela.

Now President Ford has thrown the weight of American authority behind a global effort, though he noted that each nation should be in charge of its own reserves, thus bowing to the question of sovereignty.

At the same time, the President implicitly challenged the oil producing countries to take a hand in producing a manageable world economy and the Communist nations to assume their share of the burdens of economic cooperation.

The President seemed to want to warn that the United States alone couldn't indefinitely carry the burden of being chief food supplier to the world, that others had grave responsibilities toward a stable world, that particularly the oil nations should be alert to the possible consequences of soaring energy costs and raging inflation.

Railroad Files Suit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Trustees of the Erie Lackawanna Railway Co. filed two suits Wednesday, one, seeking funds from Norfolk & Western Railway Co. and the other seeking dissolution of a job protection fund.

Erie Lackawanna is undergoing financial reorganization under the federal bankruptcy act.

The suit against Norfolk & Western contends that the railroad has filed consolidated tax returns to take advantage of Erie-related tax losses and investment credits since acquiring all of Erie's common stock in 1968. Erie wants the money given to the trustees.

The trustees also want U.S. District Court Judge Thomas D. Lambros to dissolve an employee job-protection fund they claim is needlessly tying up $1.4 a year. The railroad established the fund to take care of any workers who lost jobs because of Erie's merger with Norfolk & Western. Erie said that any jobs lost since then have been because of declining business and not the merger.

Zoos Plagued By Food Prices

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Humans aren't the only ones having a tough time making ends meet at the dinner table.

Zoo animals also have been hit hard by recent price hikes in food prices.

And the staff at the Cincinnati Zoo has had to pull many old favorites off the daily menu.

For instance, grapes are out. They are too expensive, and many of the birds now get raisins. Lizards and salamanders are suffering from a one-dollar-per-thousand increase in the cost of crickets, while dried flies have become an import item.

"If the average housewife thinks she's got problems these days, she should see what we have to go through when we go to the foodstore," said Ed Maruska, director of the zoo.

Food costs at the zoo have been rising $10,000 to $15,000 each year for the last five years and now have reached about $100,000.

"We are caught in the throes of a dilemma," said Maruska. "We can't raise the price of our product because our objective is to have as many people come to the zoo as possible."

"So we have to look for ways of cutting costs without the food suffering in quality."

Cutting corners at the market has grown into an art at the zoo.

The staff roams the Cincinnati area in search of food bargains, and newspaper prices are compared daily. In recent years, the zoo has started going to California and Florida for the tons of fish which are used for feeding, and the zoo also imports such staples as flies from Mexico and blood for its vampire bats.

However, even smart shopping can't satisfy all the needs of the zoo, according to Maruska.

"We can hardly get horse meat any more," said Maruska. "There is too much demand for it on the European market. We were almost forced by rising costs to look for a substitute."

Horse meat was selling for about 20 cents a pound when Maruska came with the zoo 12 years ago. Now it is selling for 57 cents.

A similar problem has been encountered with hay, the favorite food of many grazing animals. A good grade of hay used to sell for $35 a ton.

Now it goes for $100 and the quality is not as good as before.

The answer has been special formula substitutes. Many of the cats now are fed a special mixture of meat byproducts which Maruska said is more nutritional than the old diet.

Zebras and antelope are now munching pellets in place of grass for their meals.
